Dear Sir

I have delayed writing to you again until I could learn the extent of your article on Muhammadanism in the Jewish Encyclopaedia. I have now learned that it is a comparatively short article, and it is quite clear that it would not in the least interfere with your article for the Dictionary of Religion. For this article I can give you space to do justice to the subject and to your own knowledge of it — 30,000 words, or more if you desire it.

You will, I suppose, write in German. Professor Margoliouth of Oxford offers to translate the article, if that should be agreeable to you. Apart from the translation, the remuneration will be at the rate of £2 per page (about 1000 words).

Yours faithfully,

James Hastings
